

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to elastomeric contact masks, and methods of making these contact masks by complementary molding using complementary molds. The contact masks are made of polymer gels, including hydrogel materials. The complementary molds of the present invention include at least one elastomeric half mold. Also disclosed are methods of continuous complementary molding.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176